Police charge Romulus man with robbery

A 30-year-old Romulus man has been arrested, stemming from an April 26 armed-robbery of a residence that left the victim in serious condition with a fractured skull.

According to Detective Sergeant David Early of the Romulus Police Department, the man allegedly broke into a home on the 9700 block of Shook at approximately 10:30 a.m. by riding up to the door on a bicycle, knocking, and inquiring about some property that is for sale.

After the owner, a 69-year-old man, opened the door, the thief reportedly pulled out a handgun and entered the house, tying the man up before he robbed the home of guns, money, various identification and car keys.

"Before he left the house though," said Early, "he allegedly hit the already tied-up man over the head with a crystal vase, which fractured his skull, and then just left him lying there."

Afterwards, the man managed to free himself, make it to a neighbors house and phoned the police.

About 3 p.m. that afternoon, Early reports that the man attempted to use the victim's J.C. Penney's charge card at the Southland store in Taylor. Store management became suspicious when it turned out the account had been closed, and contacted the shopping center security, who followed the man to his car.

A check with police showed the car to be the same one stolen earlier that day in Romulus. Both Taylor and Romulus police were rushed to the scene.

Reginald Ray Barkley, a 30-year-old Romulus resident was arrested and arraigned on charges of armed robbery, assault with intent to do great bodily harm and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony.

According to Early, Barkley had his name legally changed from "Murdic Crummie." He had been arrested for armed robbery on three separate occasions under that name and is currently on parole.

He is being held in lieu of a $25,000 cash bond at the Wayne County Jail. His alleged victim is listed in fair condition.

Spring has sprung

Spring was definitely in the air last week as temperatures hit the high 70s for the first time this year, bringing out many Romulus residents to ready their house and yard for the coming summer. Here, Muriel "Red" Boelter gets down to business sanding her home before adding the paint.

Romulus man, 2 Detroiters found guilty in armed robbery incident

Three men, suspected of being involved in a robbery and sexual assault in Romulus in January, were found guilty last Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge James E. Mies, ending the two-and-a-half week trial.

On Jan. 12 of this year, Romulus resident Verlyler Clark, 28, and Detroiters Tommy Lloyd Martin, 43, and Larry C. King, 33, entered a home on Irma Street at approximately 10 p.m.

Home at the time were a 30-year-old woman, her husband, 32, a 27-year-old friend and the couple's young daughter.

"They literally battered the door down," said Romulus Detective Sergeant Sam Chalton. "Martin had a sawed-off shotgun and King had a revolver.

"They proceeded to announce that it was a robbery and tie up the two men, then they took the woman upstairs and forced themselves on her. No one touched the child."

The men were captured when the husband managed to free himself and followed the car the men fled in. After flagging down a Romulus police officer, who notified other units, the men were stopped as they attempted to enter the I-94 expressway at Merriman Road.

Martin and King were each found guilty of three counts of armed robbery and criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, while Clark was found guilty on three counts of armed robbery.

Sentencing is scheduled for May 8. All face a maximum of life imprisonment.

'Old White House'...Sumpter loses landmark

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

Minnie Rounsifer Marquardt stayed inside last month when the Sumpter Township Fire Department came by to burn down the old Rounsifer home at 44055 Judd Road, possibly the oldest house in the township and known to long-time residents as the "white house."

"Oh, no, I didn't watch, said Marquardt, 84, who lives on Judd near the ruins of the old house. "What's the sense of getting yourself excited when you don't have to?"

The destruction of the house that had belonged to the Rounsifers for more than 100 years was the township's loss more than hers, Marquardt insisted.

"It was a landmark in Sumpter," she said. "Not to be replaced. I feel bad for the township, not myself."

But Mabel Rounsifer Greca of Belleville thinks that her cousin Minnie felt worse than she let on.

"She was born in that home," said Greca, also 84. "I told her not to feel bad. It's just something that had to be done."

For Marquardt, Greca, and Greca's sister Bessie Vail, 88, (who lives with Greca) the ashes at 44055 Judd are a discouraging reminder of modern days that have been less kind than the trio of survivors could have wished.

"It doesn't pay to rent," said Marquardt, explaining why she picked up the phone one day last winter to tell the Sumpter Fire Department they could burn the white house as part of their practice runs. "If you're a tenant, you have more say than the landlord."

Marquardt stopped renting the one-time log cabin (which her cousin Charles, now deceased, completely remodeled) in 1982 — and fairly shudders at memories of her last few years as a landlady.

"Some of the people, they threatened me," said Marquardt, who walks with a cane and who bristles when asked if she needs help. "A couple of times, I had to go to the neighbors to stay. No, it doesn't pay to rent."

Selling the house was not an option, the lifelong resident said, because it rests in the center of 43 acres which she wants to sell as one entity. "But I didn't want to keep an old place like that standing there," she added. "Children play there. I didn't want nobody getting hurt."

Marquardt doesn't need additional worries. A series of robberies in her quiet, rural neighborhood have left her as wary as any big city dweller. A watchdog hovers around the front door which is locked — even in the daytime. Unknown noises mean a sudden shortness of breath, a quick reaching for the telephone.

It wasn't always this way.

"Years ago, neighbors were neighbors, and friends were friends," Marquardt emphasized. "Nobody locked doors. When you went to the grocery store you could just take your groceries and pay for them when you got the money."

Still, neither Marquardt nor her cousin Mabel Greca, who lived in Sumpter 20 years without going more than four miles from her home, would consider moving.

"Sumpter's my home, honey," said Marquardt whose voice is husky, gaze shrewd and memory first-rate. "And the Rounsifers, they were the backbone of Sumpter Township. You hear some of these younger fellows, they've been here less than 19 years and say they're grass roots. We were the grass roots."

Minnie Rounsifer and Mabel Rounsifer. A 1911 photograph shows the two cousins, solemn eyed and pinafores, side by side at a community picnic.

"Oh, yes, we played together every weekend," Marquardt said. "Mabel's just six months and 18 days older than I am."

Greca recalls hiking the two miles from her home on Willow Road to her uncle Saron's general store.

"I came from a large family, and Minnie was an only child," Greca said. "I was thrilled to visit."

Slyly, Greca reveals to a visitor that her cousin Minnie's grandmother smoked a clay pipe. "I bet Minnie won't tell you that," she chuckled.

The Rounsifer store at Judd, just past Martinsville) was "your basic, general store," said Mabel Greca who, 70 years after her childhood visits, rattles off a shopping list of popular items. "Sugar. Flour. Coffee. Tea. Did I say lard? Lard."

The Rounsifer cousins helped in the house and store in exchange for candy and peanuts, munched between giggles. They were never bored, for the Judd and Martinsville area — today dotted with small houses and the vacant Martinsville school — was the liveliest part of town.

"The cider mill and saw mill were right on Judd Road," Minnie Marquardt recalled proudly. The Martinsville school. The blacksmith shop. Two post offices. Oh, yes, it was quite a town."

A frequent stop for the two cousins was the white house. Except for brief periods of occupancy, the Saron Rounsifer rented out the house during the years Minnie Rounsifer was growing up. Several tenants became friends — Marquardt recalled one woman who patiently taught her the art of ironing lace curtains.

Why was it called the "white house"?

"Most of the log cabins back then were plain, but that one was painted white," Mabel Greca explained. "So no matter what they did to it, people went on calling it the white house. My Uncle George, his house was painted red, and everyone called it the red house."

Neither cousin knows when the home was built.

"It may be the oldest house in Sumpter," Marquardt said. "My mother lived in it at least 20 years before I was born. Maybe it's 120 years old. Maybe 140."

Greca disagrees. "I don't think there's a house in Sumpter that's 140 years old," she said.

"It's probably not much more than 100." She added, to make the point clear: "That still makes it one of the oldest houses in Sumpter."

If the daughters of brothers Saron and Aaron Rounsifer disagree on fine points, their friendship is cemented and amiable.

"Mabel's a Catholic and I'm a Protestant," Marquardt said. "But we've never had words."

Both women are part of — and proud of — the Rounsifer tradition of political and community activism. Mabel Greca noted that Uncle George Rounsifer (of "red house" fame) was township supervisor in the 1020s. "I drove him around when he was campaigning." The mother of nine, Greca taught at the former Boneville School for years and served on the school board.

A mother of a son and daughter (another son died in childhood), Marquardt ran unsuccessfully for Sumpter clerk. She describes herself as a "lifelong Republican" — but immediately adds a disclaimer: "I've voted the independent ticket, honey, but today I don't vote at all. Vote for what?"

To express her sentiments about the present state of affairs, Marquardt had a neighbor paint in bold letters "Politicians please don't campaign here" on a front yard sign. Still, she reads, line by line, the newspaper minutes of every township meeting — "It's your duty as a taxpayer."

From a lifetime of memories, which stand out? Minnie Marquardt recalls auto magnate Henry Ford's occasional visits to her father. "He always came whoosh down the road, one car in front of him, one car behind him," she said. "I can still see that old white hair flying in the wind."

If company was there, Ford would drive right past the house. "He didn't want to see nobody but my father. He didn't want a fuss made over him," Marquardt maintained.

She recalls a long ago act of kindness.

"Claud Prince had his arms cut off in a threshing machine in 1907. Well, Mr. Ford had a special car made for him, and he gave him a job in Flat Rock." Too shy to talk to "Mr. Ford" as a child, Marquardt donated the Martinsville Cider Mill to Greenfield Village in 1936.

Greca recalls the day in 1930 when the lights went on — for the first time — in Sumpter Township.

"We had four children and we stayed up half the night with every light on," Greca said, long ago awe coloring her voice. "We were so excited. My husband came home and the first thing he said was, 'oh, the bills!'"

Today, the cousins do most of their reminiscing by telephone. "Sometimes a month goes by and we don't talk," Marquardt said. "If someone we know passes on, we talk two or three times a day."

In the past year, those calls have become more frequent.

"It's a small circle," Greca said, offering the handful of names of those left of her generation.

"When you get to be three score and ten, most people have passed on," Marquardt added matter-of-factly. "We're 14 years on borrowed time already."

That brings her, full circle, to the white house, and her regret that she could not have extended its borrowed time.

"A Sumpter landmark, now gone," she repeated. At the next moment she added, "It wouldn't mean nothing to nobody else. Just Bessie and Mabel and me. But you see, we are the only ones left."

'Shams' Landfill attorney blasts township

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

"All proceedings by (Huron Township), its Board of Appeals, its Planning Commission or its Township Board were shams and meaningless and of no force or effect."

So states the lawsuit filed by Lyon Development Company, a subsidiary of Browning-Ferris Industries, on April 12, 1984, against the Township of Huron.

It furthermore says that the boards' actions pertaining to BFI's application for a permit cious exercise of police power ... and did not serve a reasonable or rational purpose and bears no substantial relationship to the health, morals, safety or general welfare."

But Huron Deputy Supervisor John Sheehan disagrees, saying that the ordinance is necessary to "control the location and operation of landfills in Huron Township."

And while Sheehan admits the ordinance may differ a bit from the state law, he is quick to point out that "we had our ordinance

"If it were me and I was turned down for a solid waste dump, I'd apply for it to be a toxic dump ..."

— Lyon Attorney James W. Collier

for the landfill "were not the products of reasonable administrative deliberations. Huron Township has officially adopted a position in opposition to ... any sanitary landfill ... such opposition is evidenced by extensive activity."

Among the "activities" mentioned in the eight-page document are "the submission to voters of a special millage for the purpose of funding the costs of opposing the establishment of any landfill in Huron Township," that the council "unanimously adopted a resolution finding that all landfills are objectionable to the community, and the fact that "the township has, through counsel, actively opposed the inclusion of the site in the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan."

According to James W. Collier, the attorney hired by Lyon/BFI, the ordinance objected to in the lawsuit "was adopted a couple of years ago, and it's one that effectively regulates a landfill to death" and, in doing so, Collier believes it is in conflict with the United States Constitution.

The suit claims "such ordinance was heretofore adopted for an unconstitutional and improper exclusionary purpose and constituted an arbitrary and capricious prior to the law going in."

Collier claims that while the Federal Aviation Administration is "looking at and considering all of the facts" regarding the effectiveness of a wire "fence and roof" keeping birds away from possible contact with planes taking off and landing at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, he says that other organizations such as the Airlines Pilots Association and the Michigan Aeronautics Commission condemn the landfills without looking at both sides "because they have absolutely nothing to gain, no reason to consider them objectively. It's easier for them to just oppose landfills."

Collier says that landfills near airports are not uncommon, and there are ones located "within a mile of San Francisco International and JFK, and you could spit on the one near Willow Run."

"If it were me," said Collier, "and I had as much money involved as BFI has here — probably around $400,000 — and I was turned down for the solid waste dump, I'd apply for it to be a toxic dump. It's an entirely different process and would probably be easier."

"But that's just what I would do. Lyon/BFI hasn't even considered that course of action."

Country living

In quest of identity: Canton's search continues

If Canton Township were travelling the yellow brick road to Oz, it would probably ask the wizard for identity.

One can't hang around the township for long without hearing Canton likened to a gangly adolescent who, still suffering growing pains from the population boom of recent decades, is now engaged in a serious struggle to "find itself."

True, Canton sometimes seems to be headed in a lot of different directions, a teenage township pursuing a variety of interests in the hopes that one will reveal some unique characteristic that will help establish a place for itself in the world.

Many are hoping that easy accessibility to airports and freeways will help one of Canton's annual events (like the country festival or soccer tournament) blossom into a full-fledged tourist attraction.

Others are engaged in a more basic campaign to let people know what and where Canton is by literally placing its location on printed maps, its name on directional freeway signs.

Many overlook the fact that, in the very act of trying, an identity is being formed.

Part of this growing reputation involves spunk. Community leaders in Canton have developed a collective personality with the reputation of not backing down from a good fight — whether it's with the Wayne County Road Commission ... or each other. They don't always agree. They do all care.

At stake are issues as basic as zoning changes, ordinance drafting and the establishment of a firm industrial base. If the township lags behind its more sophisticated eastern neighbors, so be it. Maybe Canton can learn from some of their mistakes. Maybe it can even do better.

Just when the township begins to take itself too seriously, Canton proves it has a sense of humor. No one likes to be laughed at, but Canton is better natured than most — it will laugh with you.

Although larger than most townships, public meetings in Canton often resemble the stereotyped small township "kitchen table" variety, with cookbook recipes, hat designs and kitchen band performances adding homespun charm.

As in all communities, there is a relatively small core of residents who volunteer time, energy and talent to make sure things get done. But in Canton, you're more likely to find this group clothed in T-shirts and denim than tweeds, more likely pushing a shovel than pencil. It's a typically Canton approach — direct and hands-on. It usually works.

Strikes, declining enrollment and a myriad of other problems plague Canton schools as they do school systems throughout the county. Public education is in serious trouble and many feel a major overhaul is long overdue. In the meantime, though, try finding a better public school system than the one Canton shares with its neighbors.

Visit a local elementary school the next time you find your faith in today's youth waning. Most kids are learning. Most kids still want to. Most teachers care.

For a look at some real energy, visit one of the township's senior citizens clubs or activities. They are living proof that life begins, not at any certain age, but exactly when we decide it should.

Canton has one of the best libraries around.

Construction plans for a new police facility in Canton have just been approved and plans for the state of the arts building have already captured the attention of other communities.

Canton has an active chamber of commerce and a busy business community. It's easy to forget, when criticizing the township for its lack of a true downtown-type main street, that Canton also has plenty of what its neighbors lack — plain old beautiful country.

Drive through the western end of the township. You won't see quaint store fronts, awnings or window boxes. You will see a sunset the likes of which you didn't think you could find south of Charlevoix.

The group who first brought the comforts and conveniences of the city out to this part of country have so far managed to preserve the best of both worlds.

And like other travelers to the Emerald City, Canton may find that, in its quest for identity, it had plenty of what it was searching for all along.

A love letter

She was my first love.

She is still one of my best friends and her concern and affection for me have not diminished at all throughout the years. I'm very proud that a woman like her loved me — and even prouder that she still does.

Our romance began when I was very young, and her devotion to me was total. Although she was an "older woman" she understood me as no one else ever did. She had a caring, loving nature unsurpassed by any other woman in my life, and her love knew absolutely no bounds.

The difference in our ages notwithstanding, I care for her now almost the way I did in my youth. I depended on her, cherished her and looked to her to fulfill all my needs. She never failed me.

She's a little frail these days — the rigors of her more than 70 years catching up to her. She knows pain now and her step has slowed and is hindered by her cane. Yet her spirit remains the same — loving genuine and caring. Her sincerity cannot be faulted, and her fidelity remains unquestioned.

She still phones me, almost daily, to find out how I am, to learn what I'm doing, to make sure I'm healthy and happy. And her solicitous interest is real. She isn't trying to manipulate or cajole or wheedle, she is, in fact, expressing her love.

In many ways, she still says she loves me in unique ways. "Are you eating?" she'll ask. That means she loves me. "Are you sleeping well?" she'll inquire. Translated, that means the same thing. When I was younger, her reminders of her love were things like, "Button your coat," "Wear your galoshes," "Eat your vegetables."

Her name is Mildred Rose Remdt Willett, and I'd like each and every one of you to meet her. I'm very, very proud of her and even prouder of the way she loves me. Mildred is, of course, my mother.

Thinking about her, I marvel at the way the role of motherhood is so rapidly changing in society today. But then, I think of Mildred, and realize that while the trappings might change, the role really doesn't seem to.

Mildred was a working mother, long before everybody was a working mother. She didn't have a microwave oven, a food processor, a trash compactor, or even a portable telephone enabling her to use all the other devices unimpeded while talking to her office.

She had to divide her time into smaller pieces, but the love was always there. Her love can compare to nothing else in preparing me and my three siblings for life. She often overprotected us and sometimes worried about us to a fault, but her concern and love were pure, genuine and unparalleled. I would get angry at her and wonder why she would do the things she did — but her love transcends and overshadows her few faults and fewer failures. Only those who never attempt, never fail.

My mother will be 71 June 14. She has gone through some difficult times during the past few years, especially right after my dad died. She is in great pain most of the time — but that undaunted spirit continues and she just carries on.

I somehow survived the absence of Mildred from home while she was working — it made me more independent, now that I look back on it. And the kids of today will survive. There is no substitute for the love, nurturing and tender loving care of the fellow human being who gave birth to you. But that fellow human being can also be a productive, career-minded individual without cheating a child of anything but too much attention.

Mothers' Day arrives very soon, and there will be the obligatory gifts and visits by weary adults pursuing their own lives to aging mothers who live with their memories and little else to comfort them.

I want Mildred to know how much I love her. I want her to know that I, too, have memories. I want her to know that working moms are and were just fine.

Mildred really was my first love — and she will always be more special to me than I can ever tell her. Happy Mother's Day, Mom.

See you next week.

Think it over, mayor

To the editor:

To Charles Pickering, Mayor: It has been reported that your proposed budget for the coming year calls for the elimination of the position of deputy director of the Department on Aging. Also, that after your original elimination of the director of that department you now feel that such a position is definitely needed. What has transpired since then to change your attitude? Is the increased expenditure justified?

It was also reported that you would "seriously consider" promoting the present deputy. That is not good enough for Westland's senior citizens, Mr. Mayor.

The present deputy has done an outstanding job for the past several years. She is the actual organizer of the department, and her performance has been beyond reproach.

Mrs. Kozorosky now has security and a free hand in her operation. A promotion might jeopardize that security and would not improve the quality of her performance.

Think carefully Mr. Mayor. Should the present deputy director suffer because of your action? You might lose much more than you might gain.

Arthur Schultz

cision is based on many factors — the many things going on in the Department On Aging, the proposed expansion of the Friendship Center, the mayor's proposal for a new director in the department, many seniors were worried that I'd be leaving them. My parents, living out of state, are both ill, and I feel I must spend more time with my family.

After weighing the above circumstances, I feel that I could not devote enough time to properly administer my duties on the school board. Should present conditions change my decision to run for the school board in the future may also change.

I have been active in this community for 24 years both in the school system and in the city government. Four of my children have graduated from Wayne-Westland School System, and I feel I share many of the concerns of other residents about their schools. I want my 13-year-old daughter to also receive quality education. I would like to thank my family and those friends who shared in this decision. Their cooperation, patients and support was greatly appreciated.

Questionable practice

To the Editor:

Somebody ought to investigate the Wayne-Ford Civic League.

First they just want to use kids baseball to make money. They told the coaches they had to raise $555,000 and only $21,000 would be for baseball.

Then, when all the travel team coaches left and formed their own group the WFCL won't return the boys' registration money.

Since they advertised for travel teams and now don't have it they should be obligated to return the money.

Maybe somebody ought to tell the bingo license people that the WFCL uses kids baseball as a money maker.

Homes for sale

This, ladies and gentlemen, is a story of birds, stench, the law and human decency. All the elements for a heart-warming, made-for-TV drama are here — the government, big business, middle-class America and injustice.

The site? An area near Hannan and Van Born Roads. On the west side of Hannan we have beautiful Woodland Meadows Landfill, a 102-acre operation in Canton Township that adds new meaning to the term “meadow.” On the east side we find a number of Wayne residences, including five homes up for sale near the intersection.

These homeowners on Nyman Street have attempted to sell their abodes without success. It appears that the market for homes overlooking dump sites just isn’t what it used to be.

Sure, there are a FEW problems. On warm sunny days your property may attract some sea gulls and their special presents. And yes, the smell of trash can make one nauseous when the wind blows in the right direction. During the middle of the night the sounds of beep-beep-beep from the heavy equipment can be unnerving. Scraps of paper and other delightful tidbits do cross the road on occasion, such as this past Monday.

But no place is perfect.

“Somedays I walk outside and just want to throw up,” says Treva Rivest, a resident of Nyman Street for more than 10 years. “The smell is like a mixture of an outside toilet and vinegar.”

“I have four boys and they are always complaining of sore throats and feeling sick to their stomach,” she explains. “Wait till it gets hot and muggy around here.”

“They (landfill owners) bought up the homes directly across from the dump but now they have no intention of buying any more property. We’re the last ones left with homes we can’t sell.”

Rivest listed her home, a four-bedroom, two-story house with an acre of land, last February along with the rest of her neighbors.

“Would you like to have a picnic at my house,” says Jean Siemko, pointing to the three-bedroom brick ranch she’s lived in since 1955. “It broke my heart when that farmland (landfill site) was sold. This was a beautiful area.”

“I’ve had my home for sale since last October. Who wants it? The landfill people won’t even talk about it.”

Ray Kalles, the district landfill manager, did confirm last week that Woodland Meadows would not be buying any more homes. He also pointed out that according to the guidelines set in Public Act 641, landfill owners are not required to reimburse Rivest, Siemko or their neighbors.

“There are setback requirements ... a minimum of 300 feet from residents,” he notes, “and we’re much farther away than that. All the sounds are within the acceptable decibel levels too.”

“People who we rent to across the street don’t have any problems,” says Kalles, the chairman of Wayne County’s Solid Waste Planning Committee. “It’s a subjective thing. You can always find something to complain about.”

“We’ve purchased some property but when do you stop? How far away is far enough? We’ve tried to be good neighbors.”

Landfill owners — Waste Management Corp. of Wayne, and the communities in Canton and Wayne have been engaging in a neighborly dispute for some three years. The company sued Canton in 1981 after the township denied their request for the landfill on a site south of the railroad tracks near Van Born and Hannan. That site is an addition to a 97-acre landfill located to the north.

Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer ruled in 1982 that Public Act 641 limited local authority to restrict landfill operations. Recently township officials agreed to relinquish its court battle fighting for more restrictive height and setback limitations. In exchange, landfill operators withdrew their intention to dump hazardous waste, agreed to reimburse the township $250,000 for lost tax revenue and fund construction of a $15,000 motocross racing course, and also gave the township control of a historic homestead on the site.

According to Wayne Community Development Director John Zech, the Department of Natural Resources approved the landfill permit despite numerous objections. Apparently the site is geologically right for the dumping of solid waste.

“Those homes on Nyman are zoned for heavy industrial use,” Zech explains. “Woodland Meadows bought four or five homes on Hannan but it’s my understanding that there’s no interest in that area (Nyman).”

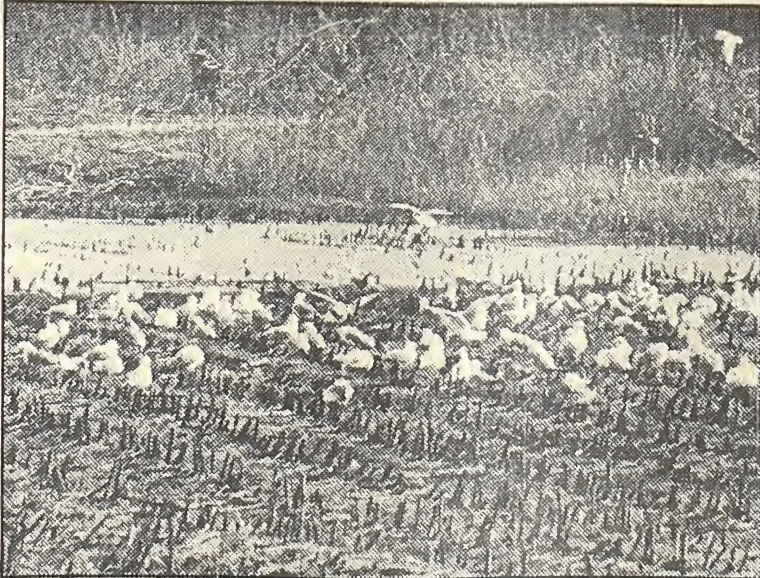

Zech also points out that Woodland Meadows has been found to be operating well within the state law. There are no provisions that will assist nearby homeowners in their search for buyers.

Great.

Daniel Beach and his family have lived on Nyman for 22 years. He has complained during recent months of trash blowing on his property, loud noises heard throughout the night and the stench of garbage that can’t be controlled by a fence.

He and his neighbors have contemplated litigation but the cost and court time seem prohibitive.

Not all stories have happy endings.

Motorists travelling along Hannan Road Monday could see a trash-lined fence bordering Woodland Meadows Landfill and plenty of debris on the berm area.

“Somedays I walk outside and just want to throw up. The smell is like a mixture of an outside toilet and vinegar.”

Track dynasty to end?

TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Few high school coaches have forged the powerful dynasties that Cherry Hill's Dick Gordon has over the years. His undefeated Spartans have won the last 12 Tri-River Conference titles.

But the Spartan domination may come to an end this season.

"Going into the season people were telling me that Annapolis (Dearborn Heights) has all of the horses this year," Gordon says. "And that may be true. If anyone's going to do it to us, it will be them."

On Thursday, Coach Gordon and his Spartans will know just how good Annapolis is. They're scheduled to meet at the Cougar field to determine which team will remain undefeated and will carry the onus of being the team to beat at the Tri-River Conference Championships.

There is a professional gentry about Gordon that can only reflect and rub off on those who he trains and works with. He is the first to admit he is not a solitary genius, but "has inherited a tradition at Cherry Hill launched some two decades ago by people like Joe Grasley.

Head coach for the past six years, Gordon stepped up to his present status after serving as an assistant to Grasley. The two men have won the past 12 league titles and at one time owned the longest dual meet winning streak in the state — 60 consecutive victories.

That streak ended in 1982 when veteran coach Bill Pinnell at Garden City West guided his Tigers to an upset of the Spartans. Pinnell has since left the coaching scene after approximately 25 years of service. He is, however, the athletic director at Garden City (West Senior High was combined with East High due to declining student enrollment.)

"Our meets with Cherry Hill have been classics," recalled Pinnell. "They have a tradition over there that is second to none."

If Annapolis should knock off Gordon's Spartans on Thursday it would be the first time a Dearborn Heights track team has ever defeated them.

But don't bet against Cherry Hill.

Belleville wins own relays

Spartans set record in 2-mile

Coach Dave Medley and his Belleville Tigers left little for speculation or doubt in anyone's mind about who has the best relay team in this area. The Tigers amassed almost twice as many points as their nearest rivals in winning their own relays on Saturday.

Belleville piled up 102 points to runner-up Plymouth Salem's 55 to capture the 1984 edition of the relays. The Tigers also picked up gold medals with their teams in the 4-mile, pole vault, distance medley, as well as the discus and the mile relays.

One record fell and that went to the Cherry Hill 2-mile relay team which established itself as one of the premier foursomes in the state.

Coach Dick Gordon's quartet of Ed Mulrooney, Quinn Lawrence, Richard Smith and Larry Dixon was clocked in a fast 8:10.8, beating host, Belleville, to the wire without any difficulty.

Dixon, who anchored the 2-mile relay team, and also was the anchorman for the runner-up mile relay team, was named as the "Athlete of the Meet."

"He's just one heck of an athlete and competitor," said Coach Gordon. "We lost that mile relay by a hair-line and Larry almost pulled that one out for us too."

After sweeping Dundee, Spartans return to league war

Cherry Hill will return to the realities of the Tri-River Conference baseball world as Coach Ken Mientkiewicz's Spartans prepare to meet Southgate today and Allen Park on Thursday.

The Spartans are coming off of an excellent series with out-of-league rival, Dundee which was pounded for 33 hits in losing a pair to Cherry Hill 10-7 and 14-7.

"Our kids are getting a hold of the ball now," said Coach Mientkiewicz whose team will sport a 4-3 record (2-1 in the league), going into today's confrontation at Southgate. "These two league games are important to us."

Cherry Hill jumped out to a 10-0 lead over Dundee which gave the Spartan skipper an opportunity to experiment in the latter stages of the game. Dundee came back and scored seven runs in the seventh inning which forced winner, Dave Kevnick, to yield to reliever, Mike Merriman who got the last out.

Kevnick struck out 10 and walked four and missed the shutout when the defense collapsed behind him.

"We used some people who had not seen a lot of action this season," Mientkiewicz noted, "and, unfortunately, the kids made some errors. Those seven runs were unearned."

Ken Farmer paced the Spartans' hitting assault as he bagged two hits. Paul Oster also collected two (for three times at bat) and Merriman picked up a pair of singles.

Merriman starred on the mound as well as at the plate in the nightcap. He hammered three hits, scored three times and knocked in two runs in the 14-7 shellacking. He was credited with the victory in relieve of Oster who worked four innings and gave up all seven runs.

Dan Sanchez helped the Spartans with a pair of RBIs thanks to two hits and Nick Butkevich picked up two singles and two runs batted in while Tom Storite latched on to three hits and Mark Bayliss contributed two for four.

J & D Auto qualifies for world tournament

Five consecutive victories in Dearborn over the weekend provided J & D Auto/Little Bill's with a ticket to the qualifying U.S.S.S.A. World Championship to be staged over the Labor Day weekend in Plymouth, Minnesota.

J & D knocked off Bash of Lansing in the finals 5-1 to earn the berth in the world tournament.

"In order to qualify for the world tournament you must win a qualifying tournament," explained Larry Quartuccio, a member of the Wayne team. "There were 24 teams in Dearborn competing for the honor to advance to the world tournament."

In the finals, Bash struck for a first inning run, but that's all they got as J & D came up with three runs in the bottom of the second and added two more to clinch the victory.

J & D batters belted 10 hits with Ron Bostwick, Don Staples and Gary Bowen each collecting two.

Earlier J & D humbled Seneca of Lincoln Park 14-6 as the champs erupted for nine runs in the first inning and added four more to salt away the decision.

Don Staples drilled a single and double and accounted for three RBIs while Bill Hughes collected two singles.

Five members of the Wayne club were selected to the all-tournament team. In that elite club are Don Canfield, who was also picked as the MVP of the tournament, Don and Ron Staples along with Cliff Davidson and Ron Bostwick.

Other members of the Wayne team include Dave Conlin, Keith Drake, Bill Hughes, Charlie Morris, Larry Quaruccio, Gary Bowen, Gary Tilson, and Bob Fallow.

Tansey blanks Romulus; Eagles win 2nd

Belleville's Bob Tansey apparently wasn't impressed by Romulus's press clips that heralded Coach Dennis Stoh's Eagles as "the hottest baseball team in the area."

The righthanded Belleville hurler fired a five-hitter and blanked the Eagles 3-0 in the first game of a doubleheader last week. Romulus roared back in the nightcap to edge their area rivals 10-9 thanks to a 5-run last-of-the-seventh rally.

Tansey fanned seven and walked three in chalking up his first win of the season.

"Bob was in trouble in the first inning, but pitched out of it. He was in control the rest of the way," noted Belleville coach Tom Fielder.

Dave Kleivins, who whiffed one and walked four in a 3-hit pitching effort, was charged with the loss.

Kleivins gave up a fifth inning run when he walked Glenn Arquette, then Tansey sacrificed to bring up Danny Wilson who laced a run-scoring double to right center.

Belleville stashed the decision away in the seventh with two insurance runs as Tansey worked Kleivins for a walk after one was out. Fielder then inserted Jesus Pavlovich as a pinch-runner who immediately proceeded to steal second, then Chris Krebs got aboard on a walk, bringing Randy Lamasters to the plate.

Kleivins unleashed a wild pitch, moving up the baserunners and, with the count at 2-2, Lamasters drilled a single, scoring the two runs.

In the wild nightcap, Romulus exploded for five runs in the bottom of the seventh to pull out the victory as Sean Vernott came through with a two-run single in that crucial inning to tie the game. Romulus' Rex Boatright picked up three hits for his three at-bats.

Belleville got to three Romulus hurlers for 15 hits as Eric Wegerbauer led the assault with three hits (in four appearances) and scored three times. Mike Spau, Lee Cooper and reliever Ron Thomas, who digested the loss, collected two hits each.

'Fall fever'

Area gridders eye collegiate roster at SVSC

Darrel Bartkowiak and Marty Piper, both graduates of Plymouth Salem High School, have finished three weeks of extensive spring football practice at Saginaw Valley State College.

According to Head Coach George Ihler, the two Canton natives have worked hard during drills and are expected to be key players next season when the Cardinals try to defend their Great Lakes Conference title. If successful, SVSC will be the first team since 1974 to win back-to-back GLIAC titles.

Bartkowiak, a 5-11, 215-pound junior linebacker, was third on the team in tackles last season and is expected to be one of the Cardinals top defensive players again this season.

Piper, a 6-4, 225-pound offensive lineman started several games last season before being sidelined with a knee injury. He is expected to once again be in the battle for a starting spot on SVSC's front line.

This spring session featured scrimmage play nearly every day. "We had to find out who could play and the best way was to scrimmage," stated Ihler.

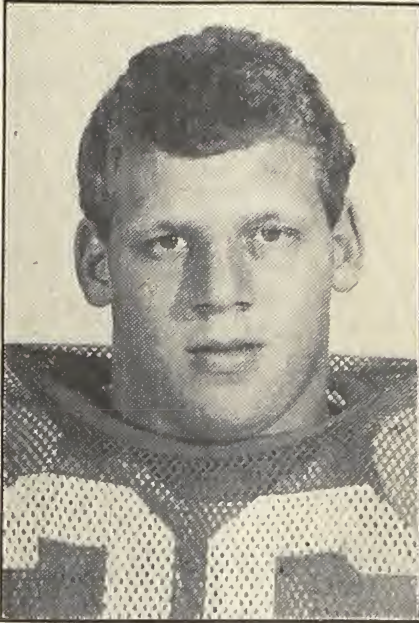

SVSC finished third in the NAIA Division I national playoffs in 1983 while posting a 9-3 overall mark. The Cardinals will begin fall practice in August in preparation for the 1984 season opener against Indiana Central on September 8.

Joe Rice, a graduate of Huron High School, also sweated it out at Saginaw Valley State College.

The 6-4, 235-pound senior defensive end worked hard during drills is expected to return to his starting position next fall. The New Boston native was fourth in tackles last season and is expected to be one of the Cards' top defensive players this year.

Canton Cruisers honor swim team

The Plymouth-Canton Cruisers brought the curtains down to a successful swim season as more than 100 young swimmers were honored at a recent banquet.

The Cruisers captured the Western Wayne Aquatic Conference League championship to cap a near perfect dual meet year.

Patches and certificates were awarded to all age group swimmers who established club records. In that group are the girls medley relay composed of Stephanie Long, Amy Homan, Pam Pritchard and Kristen Stackpoole, and the girls' freestyle relay team whose line up includes Long, Autumn Bunch, Kristen Stackpoole and Pam Pritchard.

Pam Pritchard also owns the 25-yard freestyle record at 15.59 and the 50-yard freestyle mark at 34.46, along with the 100-yard individual medley, 25-yard backstroke and the 25-yard butterfly records.

In the 8-and-under boys category, Patrick Vesnaugh has the 25-yard freestyle record (14.8) and the 100-yard individual medley (1:33.81), while in the 11 and 12 girls group, Mary Lawson is tops in the 100-yard freestyle (1:03.9), and the 50-yard backstroke (34.1). Erin Olson produced the best time in the 50-yard backstroke (36.82), while Mickey Adamczak touched in with a 58.67 and 1:08.5 for the 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard individual medley for the fastest times in those events.

Scott Swartzwelter broke the record barrier in the 50-yard backstroke (32.46), and the 50-yard butterfly (30.72). The girls' freestyle relay team made up of Kelly Rische, Kellie Adamczak, Katie Vesnaugh and Jill Estey was clocked in the best time of 1:57.63.

In the 13-14 year old, girls age group, Michelle Stackpoole, Sue Bonnett, Mary Lawson, and Lori Shaffer combined for a 2:08.27 to establish a club mark.

Individually, Lori Shaffer produced record performances in the 50-yard freestyle (26.42), 200-yard individual medley at 2:27.9, and the 50-yard butterfly (30.5). She also was the top performer in the 100-yard butterfly (1:06.4).

Mary Lawson holds the record for the 100-yard backstroke for girls, 13 and 14, as

How about those Tigers!

After finishing the best month in their 84 year history - 18-2 for April - the big question baseball fans everywhere are asking is, "Are the Tigers for real?"

The answer from this corner is a definite "Yes."

Oh, we all realize that they can't keep up their current pace for the entire year, but this race could be over by the end of May. This next month the Detroiters have 27 games, all against teams that finished with .500 or below records last season.

This is the Tigers chance to really clean and mop up. Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said all spring this was a great team.

"Don't be surprised if the Detroit pitching staff leads the A.L. in earned run average, despite being in one of the best hitting parks in the big leagues."

How right he is. I predict Detroit will lead the Major Leagues in runs scored. Also I believe this club will hit more home runs than any other team. At all eight positions the Tigers should get at least 10 homers.

Lance Parrish, Darrell Evans and even Kirk Gibson are capable of hitting 30 or more round-trippers if they play everyday. Leads me to the next point: The tremendous depth of the Tigers. They have been able, even in the first month, to rest most of the regulars and not blink an eye. The other teams have to keep playing their top players just to keep the East from becoming a runaway.

And this will really help the Tigs come July and August. The other clubs' top players will be tired, while Detroit's key players will be fresh. Now let's go to the pitching of this team.

Sparky has used all of his pitchers at least twice in the first 20 games. Despite the fact that Detroit has the lowest ERA in the league (.250) the staff only has four complete games. The Tigers' skipper has removed his starters late in the games despite having big leads. This will help down the stretch.

Top pitchers like Jack Morris and Dan Petry will have that little extra come the end of the season. And the second line pitchers will have had a lot of work. The same with the other bench warmers.

If the Bengals do happen to suffer some injuries the reserves will be ready when called on. Let's talk about the Tigers reserves and second line pitching they've done a terrific job. First Tom Brookens. He sat around all Spring while about eight guys tried to take his 3rd base job from him. And although he still isn't a regular, he's done a bang up job when he's in there.

Brookens also played short-stop last Sunday and made a couple of terrific plays as Petry came within four outs of a no-hitter. A very valuable guy, this Brookens. And he doesn't complain. Now Dave Bergman. What a glove man at 1st base! He also has some pop at the plate. Valuable Dwight Lowry. He has done a wonderful job behind the plate when the Tigers rested Parrish.

And what an arm. He's hit well, too. Rusty Kuntz has done a good job as Gibson's caddy in right field. Good defensively. And Barbaro Garbey. He's hitting .444 and has driven in 11 runs in just 36 at bats. And he's not a regular. What a pure hitter this guy is. Also Rod Allen and John Grubb have done well when called on. As far as the secondary pitching Juan Berenguer had great stuff in beating the White Sox less than two weeks ago. A great arm this man has. When he

Gruisers honor tankers

she churned a 1:12.28.

Ginnie Johnson has her name engraved in the record books for her efforts in the 15-18 age group for the 200-yard individual medley (2:25.2) and the 100-yard butterfly (1:04.4). John Simone came up with a 52.0 for the 100-yard freestyle and also turned in a 1:05.8 for the 100-yard breaststroke.

Yes, the Tigers are for real throws strikes, he's something.

Glenn Abbott doesn't throw hard at all, but knows how to pitch and has looked sharp. Doug Bair has won two games already and can strike people out. He's done well. Dave Rozema also has pitched well. I wish people would quit saying the Tiger pitching is not that good. It is a very good staff.

And hasn't Aurelio Lopez looked good. The ace of the bullpen has allowed just six hits in 19 1/3 innings and has a 1.40 ERA while winning 2 and saving 2. And although Willie Hernandez has the highest ERA, (4.88) on the staff, he's pitching well.

Don't be surprised if the Detroit pitching staff leads the A.L. in earned run average, despite being in one of the best hitting parks in the big leagues.

But back to the reserves on the Tigers. Most all the publicity has gone out to people like Gibson, Alan Trammell, Lou Whitaker, Parrish, Lemon, Evans, Morris and Petry and, well it should. These guys are doing great. But let's not forget about the reserves. They've done real well, too. And speaking of Trammell, a lot of people said he hit over his head last season (.319), but here he is hitting up around .400 and playing great shortstop. He has a chance to be the M.V.P. in the American League.

Now, Lou Whittaker, the second half of baseball's best double play combo. Another guy who they said hit over his head a year ago (.320). Whittaker is about that average now and has been his usual spectacular self at 2nd base.

Whitaker, Trammell and Parrish all won Gold Gloves last season. But the Tigers best defensive player a year ago was Lemon. He's been great this year, too, and should win a Gold Glove this year. Offensively, he's been great. There you have it. The 1984 Tigers. Even though they're in baseball's toughest division, this is their year. The fabulous start is no fluke. This, my friends, is the best team in baseball. Bless you, boys.

You can hear Ron Cameron weekdays from 4 to 5 p.m. on his show "Sports Talk" on WCAR 1090 AM. Cameron does his show every Saturday from 7-8 p.m. at Tom's Tavern on Michigan Avenue between Merriman and Venoy in Wayne. Audience participation is welcome. Stop by Tom's Tavern.

Wah Mee

Taste of China brought to Westland

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Managing Editor

In 1937 Frank Gee came to America from mainland China. Today he brings a taste of China to Westland at his Wah Mee Restaurant, located at 8040 Middlebelt in the Arbor Place Shopping Center.

Gee served as a chef at his father's restaurant, the Chinese Village Inn in Detroit, for nearly 30 years before opening Wah Mee in 1977. His culinary experience is translated into one of the most extensive menus around.

Although most of the entrees feature the Cantonese style of cooking, there are also some spicy dishes such as the hot and spicy shrimp. Among the dinner favorites are almond chicken ($5.75), sweet and sour pork ($5.35) and the Wah Mee Sizzler ($7.50), a combination of chicken, roast pork, water chestnuts and mushrooms sauteed with Chinese vegetables and served over rice.

Gee also recommends the Pau Pau Plate ($4.25 per person), a flaming appetizer that offers spare ribs, balimaki, stuffed chicken, shrimp chips and fried shrimp. Combination plates include soup or juice, dinner roll, almond or fortune cookie and tea or coffee.

In addition to more than 50 Chinese entrees, Gee also prepares a diversified selection of American steaks, chops and seafoods.

Twelve combination plates, ranging in price from $3.35 to $3.95, are highlighted on the luncheon menu. Each entree is served with egg roll and fried rice, soup or juice and tea or coffee.

Various tropical drinks and cocktails are offered with a two-for-one Happy Hour special featured from 4 to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"Wah means 'Chinese' and Mee is 'American,'" responded Gee when asked to explain the origin of the restaurant's name. "Together the two words mean 'beautiful.'"

Wah Mee remains a family-run operation with Gee being assisted by daughter, Kathy (manager) and his wife, Big Wun (translation, "beautiful cloud").

Business hours are from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. till 11:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon till 10 p.m. Sunday.

Members of the Frank Gee family help provide a quality dining experience at the Wah Mee Restaurant, 8040 Middlebelt in Westland. Assisting in the operations are daughter Kathy (left), the restaurant manager; daughter Darlene, assistant manager; wife Big Wun; owner Frank Gee; daughter Rita, assistant manager, and son Harvey.

Wayne organist to perform

Organist Craig Scott Symons of Wayne will perform in concert with the Dearborn Choral Art Society and the Wayne State Chamber Singers at 8 p.m. Saturday at the First United Methodist Church of Dearborn, located at Mason and Garrison Streets.

Symons, the organist at Cherry Hill Presbyterian Church in Dearborn, served as assistant musical director for the Dearborn Civic Theatre's recent production of "The Gondoliers." A 1980 graduate of the Interlochen Arts Academy, he won the young artist competition at the Kalamazoo Bach Festival the same year.

In addition to his keyboard abilities, Symons is a versatile singer, performing with the Wayne State Chamber Singers and the jazz group, Kevin Dewey Singers.

During the concert Symons will be the organist for the performance of "Requiem," a piece based on Gregorian chant from the Mass of the Dead.

Tickets, priced at $4 and $3 for seniors and students, will be available at the door or can be obtained in advance by contacting the Dearborn Recreation Department at 943-2354.

Hines closed to autos

Hines Drive will be closed to automobile traffic from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday from Seven Mile to Outer Drive for the first Activities Day, sponsored by Wayne County Executive William Lucas.

"This day is intended for all groups sponsoring bike-a-thons, walk-a-thons or any kind of activity where auto traffic would be a problem," said Lucas.

Security will be provided by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. The next Activity Day is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 5.

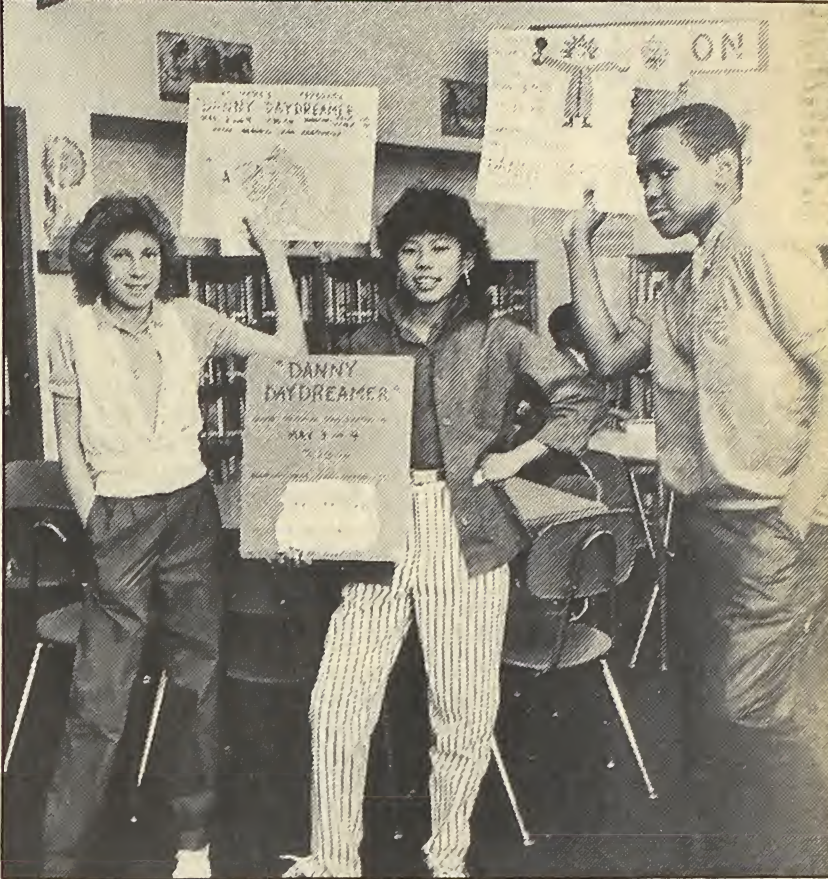

Local students cast in play at Henry Ford

Anita Clark of Canton, Wayne Jedynak of Belleville and Rhonda Knight of Romulus are cast in supporting roles for the production of the musical comedy "Little Mary Sunshine," scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center on the Henry Ford Community College campus in Dearborn.

Clark will portray one of the young ladies from Eastchester Finishing School while Jedynak is cast as a forest ranger. Knight will play one of the prologue girls in the play, which is presented by the college's performing arts department.

"Little Mary Sunshine" is a spoof of operettas from a bygone era.

Tickets are priced at $5 for adults, $4 for students and $3 for senior citizens and will be available at the door.

Approximately 100 students (kindergarten through ninth grade) will perform in St. Mary's production of "Danny Daydreamer" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Stockmeyer Auditorium in Wayne. The stars of the show, Diane Krushinski (left), Jackie Choi and Aaron Butler sang and danced the number "We Don't Need a Crowd on a Bus" during a recent assembly at the school to promote the play. Tickets, priced at $1.25 and 75 cents, are available from St. Mary's school and parish center offices, 34565 Sims, Wayne.

what's that sound? They don't come much better

... by steve o'leary (or, "Well done, T-Bone, well done")

T-Bone Burnett

"Say what?"

T-Bone Burnett is, at first glance, an unlikely rock'n'roll star. From his tall (seven foot), gangly appearance to his Texas drawl to his hawk nose, one doesn't immediately see him threatening David Lee Roth for the cover of Star Hits magazine.

His list of credentials is pretty impressive though: from producing the unlikely hit single "Psycho" by the equally unlikely Legendary Stardust Cowboy in the 60's to becoming a solid member of Bob Dylan's Rolling Thunder Revue to forming the Alpha Band, he's always showed brilliant potential.

Burnett's solo albums, though, are where he shines brightest, and where his best songs have been displayed. They weren't really "solo" LP's though, because he displayed the talents of rock luminaries like Mick Ronson and Pete Townshend. However, when he came to town last month for a solo show at Ann Arbor's Second Chance and again last week opening for Elvis Costello at Hill Auditorium (where he got an encore and two standing ovations - incredible for an opening act at a Costello show), it was solo, T-Bone and a single acoustic guitar. And a house full of fanatic fans and others that were quickly converted. Here's what he had to say.

Q. How come you've never toured this area before?

A. I couldn't really afford to come here with a band, which is one of the nice things about this solo tour. And in a way, I think the shows are more interesting than they are with a band. While you can't replace the excitement of a band, an acoustic solo show can actually be more powerful in other ways. The listening dynamics can be incredible.

Q. At the Second Chance, you asked the crowd "Are you all a cult?" "Cause I hear I'm a cult artist." Has all the critical acclaim that's been heaped on you been a help or a hindrance?

A. I don't know... I think it's helped in a way, because I believe you've got to get that as a basis, if you're going to keep playing for a number of years. I think if you just get a hit single, then people just come to hear the single. But if you get a sort of underground following, they'll see you through the bad times.

Q. Is the song "The Murder Weapon" off of the "Proof Through The Night" LP a single now?

A. No, but it's a video on MTV. That's a song about the tongue, incidentally — the tongue is the murder weapon. A lot of people have thought it's about the Bomb or something...but it's a smaller song than that. "It can kill from any distance but you never see it strike."

Q. At least you didn't say it about critic's pens...

A. (laughing) I suppose that all those type things are extensions of the tongue. Actually I was just thinking about the way we hurt each other with our words.

Q. How did you hook up with the musicians that played on your album?

A. Well, David Mansfield I've known for years. He was on the Dylan Rolling Thunder tour, as was Ronson. He's amazing, by the way. He's (Ronson) the first "guitar slinger" I've worked with in the studio. Ronson and I toured in support of the "Trap Door" album, and for that we were opening for the Who on their farewell tour, so Townshend and the band seemed to like my stuff, so we stayed in contact and I asked him to play on a few cuts and he agreed.

Q. What's next?

A. I'm probably going to get another album out, hopefully by September but definitely by the end of the year. I've been writing a whole lot, and I've already recorded some songs for an LP called "Broadway My Way," which will feature tunes like "Anything Goes." Like "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend" on the "Trap Door" record. I'm also working on a new album which'll be called "My Life and the Women Who've Lived It."

After nearly three hours of music ranging from his own compositions (which the crowd sang the background vocals) to Dolly Parton songs to a ripping "La Bamba" to an acapella version of "King Of the Road," Burnett still wasn't through. In a dressing room downstairs, where there were about twenty people, he picked up his guitar and sang a song he wrote with Warren Zevon titled "Bed of Coals." When someone asked him why he hadn't played that request onstage, he just laughed and humbly admitted that he "couldn't remember the words."

Not only is he good, he's honest.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nelson, also of Tribes Hill, repeated her vows in the chapel of Siena College in Loudonville. She completed her bridal ensemble with an open-weaved picture hat, trimmed to match the gown and chapel length veil. Her bouquet was of white cascading roses.

Given in marriage by her father, she asked her sister, Patricia Roy of Fulton, N.Y., to serve as matron of honor. Her attendants included Mrs. Tsuruko Nelson, sister-in-law of the bride, of Santa Ana, California, Christiann Smith, a friend, of Goose Pointe Woods, Sandy Bozelak, sister of the groom, of Romulus.

The junior bridesmaid was Alison Roy and the flowergirl Amy Roy, both nieces of the bride, from Fulton, N.Y. The ringbearer was Joseph Bozelak, brother of the groom, of Romulus.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bozelak of Romulus, asked William Sweeney of Detroit to serve as best man. The ushers were Ronald Kramczyk, cousin of the groom, of Brooklyn, Mich., and Mark Zeron, cousin of the groom, of Wayne.

Fashionable

Easter fashions were on parade and so was a Romulus teen, who participated in the Fairlane Towne Center's "Easter Parade Fashion Show" recently.

Held amidst an Easter carousel specifically designed for the shopping mall, Leslie Rakotz, a sophomore at Aquinas High School, modeled in the show as a member of fashion panel.

More than 80 outfits depicted the "in" look in sportswear, daytime and evening dressing.

Rakotz has been a member of the Fairlane Towne Center Fashion Panel for two years.

Summer jobs available

Some 2,000 summer jobs will be available for economically disadvantaged youth in Wayne County through the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program.

The jobs will be available to youths between the ages of 16 and 21 who live in Wayne County, excluding the City of Detroit and 13 Downriver communities which have their own programs.

The Wayne County Private Industry Council will administer the program, beginning June 18, through the intermediate and local school districts. The program is being financed with federal Job Partnership Training Act funds.

According to Wayne County Executive William Lucas, 75 percent of the funds will be for youths attending school, with the remaining funds reserved for young people who are out of school.

The jobs will be entry level positions in a variety of occupational areas in the public and private non-profit sectors. Participants will be paid for 20 to 40 hours of work per week during the eight-week program.

Matter of safety
Microwave 'checkups' stir questions

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

Jerry Smith isn't trying to do away with microwave ovens — he just suspects they aren't as safe as manufacturers and the government would have us believe.

"There is information that suggests microwave ovens might be more dangerous than we think," Smith said. "I'm not trying to scare people — but I do think that the American people have been brainwashed. People should know what's going on so they can decide for themselves what precautions to take."

Smith, a Canton Township resident, isn't a doctor, scientist or professor. He doesn't have a college degree, hasn't written a book and represents no group.

But Smith is a consumer — one who began asking questions and found the lack of answers disquieting.

"This all started when I bought potentially harmful to humans and have induced cataracts and birth defects in animals.

Authors Charles Panati and Michael Hudson, a radiation health physicist and journalist respectively, suggest that microwave doses even lower than the national safety standard applied to ovens sold in this country may be harmful.

"The book raised lots of questions in my mind," Smith said, "but the answers all depend on who you talk to and who you want to believe. Some groups, like manufacturers and governmental agencies, say microwave ovens are safe. But this other group, doctors and scientists, are saying they might not be."

Dr. Leonard Portner, a Farmington Hills physician and host of WXYZ's "Ask the Doctor" talk show, said that he has received calls from listeners reporting that "bizarre things were happening when they stood near their microwave ovens."

"We know microwaves cause cataracts, and yet children, who are fascinated by watching food cook, stand and peer directly into the glass. This is the kind of thing people should be aware of."

— Jerry Smith

"These days we take microwave ovens as much for granted as we do electric stoves."

— Esther K. Shapiro, director of consumer affairs, Detroit

Sipes said. "This remains to be proven."

"In the middle of the 19th century, the only radiation we were subjected to was primarily from the sun," Sipes explained. "Today we have intensified the level of radiation from the emission of several million transmitters..."

"Some research has shown that concentrated continuous exposure to electromagnetic radiation produces irritability in animals, reduces milk production from cows and stunts plant growth," Sipes continued. "Russian researchers report side effects among radar workers of headache, fatigue, depression, loss of short term memory and other effects. One study found that an exposure of .1 watts per cubic centimeter for one hour heated the eye fluid of rabbits to 110°F and one week later cataracts began to form..."

The issue of cataracts, although found only in high doses of microwaves on animals, is of particular concern to Smith.

"We know microwaves cause cataracts," he said, "and yet children, who are fascinated by watching food cook in the countertop oven, stand and peer directly into the glass. This is the kind of thing people should be aware of."

It seems most of the public doesn't share Smith's concern.

Esther K. Shapiro, director of consumer affairs for the City of Detroit, said that most of the calls her department receives about microwave ovens are from consumers who simply want to know which brand oven is best.

"These days we take microwaves as much for granted as we do electric stoves," Shapiro said.

"If there is a question, the director added, "we usually check with 'Consumer Reports', which is extremely conservative and airs on the cautious side of most issues. They still have a few reservations about microwaves."

Microwave oven 'checkups' reheat safety concerns

Jerry Smith

the letter writer ... by ginny eades

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Keep in touch with me at 41719 Joy Road, Canton 48187 or give me a call at 455-8892.

AUNT SUES NEPHEW AND NIECE IN SMALL CLAIMS COURT

Dear Letter Writer:

When my nephew and niece were about to lose their home, I loaned them $4,500; part of the money in 1979 and part of it in 1980. For a while they made payments and then during the summer of 1982, they stopped. I sent them the following letter:

"Dear J and C:
Frankly, I am at a loss to understand that you have not shown me the courtesy of a note or a phone call regarding your long overdue balance on the loan. I am sorry that you have not felt your obligation to repay me as we agreed. I am enclosing a photocopy of your signed promissory note. I should not have to remind you that there is still a balance due. The last payment I received from you was on May 20, 1982. That was three months ago.

"I hear that you have just received a promotion and a raise in pay. J. and I certainly cannot understand your unwillingness to repay me. I have waited and waited and now I have waited long enough. My patience has worn thin."

"Therefore, I shall expect full payment of the balance to be in my hands no later than September 15, 1982, or you leave me no alternative but to place this delinquent account in the hands of my attorney for collection. I trust that you will see the desirability of avoiding such proceedings.

Sincerely, JM

I have never heard from either J or C since. I have telephoned and spoken with them, but it is obvious that they do not intend to pay. Can you help me with one last letter?

Sincerely, JM

Dear J and C:

THIS IS THE LAST LETTER THAT I AM GOING TO WRITE.

The balance owing on your Promissory Note to me executed on July 19, 1980, is over four hundred dollars.

This letter is written to put you on FORMAL NOTICE that in the event that I do not receive the entire amount due no later than Thursday, April 19, 1984, I shall begin proceedings in Small Claims Court, 18th District in Westland, Michigan.

I await your prompt response.

Sincerely, JM

RESOLUTION:

This was a tough one, but J.M. is a tough lady. On April 23, 1984 having not heard from J. or C., J.M. filed a small claim as she promised in her letter. On April 25, 1984, J. and C. sent the check to JM in the full amount owed. It is unfortunate that J.M. had already filed the lawsuit, but the letter worked and that's what counts. The lawsuit will be dismissed by J.M.

prepared in 1981 explained that: "X-rays and gamma rays, which oscillate millions of times faster than microwaves do, can create electrically charged, or 'ionized' molecules in substances they penetrate. Ionized particles can damage the body's cells...Microwaves, on the other hand, don't carry enough energy to be ionizing, but they may affect the body in other ways.

"Exposure to high levels of microwave energy is unquestionably dangerous," the article states. "Whether low-level radiation is hazardous, however, is still unclear."

Consumer Reports did recommend that consumers have their ovens tested every few years, although they suggested that the testing be done by an expert using equipment more reliable (and expensive) than over-the-counter home use devices.

A year ago, Smith paid $375 for such a device and, at $20 a crack, entered the microwave oven testing business.

"I've spent more time tracking down information than I have with the testing," Smith said. "but I've checked about 75 ovens in and around Canton. All of them met federal specifications. And all of them leaked.

"The question is not whether or not microwave ovens leak," Smith explained. "They do leak. The government says they can leak — it's a question of how much."

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) safety limits allow leakage on a new oven to one milliwatt of radiation per square centimeter at any point two inches from the oven. To allow for deterioration over the oven's lifetime, a maximum leakage of 5 milliwatts is permitted after the oven is sold.

According to the FDA, no cases of radiation injuries from microwave ovens have been documented.

Not surprisingly, manufacturers also claim that consumers the likes of Smith are overly cautious.

Rob Tobin, sales coordinator for Amana Refrigeration in Detroit, said that his company has submitted its ovens to, and passed, a voluntary U.S. government safety test program six times.

"We're the only microwave oven manufacturer to earn an exemption from the government's warning label," Tobin said. "Our standards are even higher than theirs."

During testing, Tobin said, Amana ovens survived 150,000 door openings and an abusive drop from a 30-inch counter to a concrete floor and still didn't leak in excess of federal standards.

"These ovens have been thoroughly tested," Tobin said. "Unless there is some physical damage to the door seal, there is no need for consumers to have their ovens tested further."

Most sales people give the same advice.

"I don't see where these people come from telling people they don't need to have ovens checked," Smith said. "I'm not in favor of mandatory checks or anything like that. If people don't want theirs checked, that's fine. But testing services should be available."

Smith said that simple awareness in one benefit of having ovens periodically tested.

"Aside from checking the oven's performance, I tell people where and how much the oven is leaking," Smith explained.

"If these are leaks the government allows, I don't recommend repairs or changes or anything like that — but I will tell you, if you have a leak near the latch, not to stand with your hand on the handle while your food cooks.

"Sure, I'd like to be able to make a living checking microwave ovens," Smith admitted. "but I really don't care if people call me or someone else to do the testing. I just hate to see them told the testing isn't necessary when no one knows that for sure. We're only beginning to research the long range effects of low microwave radiation. Right now I'd rather be safe than sorry."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT By John Brimble

Pretty centerpiece: a small bouquet in a slender glass or vase, in the center of a bundt cake or angel cake. Flowers can even be left in place while you cut the cake.

Dough won't stick if you chill the board and rolling pin in the freezer for a few hours before preparing pastry.

Homemade baby food is less of a chore if you puree it in the processor from family meals, then store portion-size cubes in freezer.

As good as bearnaise sauce, and lots easier: top hamburger with sour-cream-and-onion dip.

The old tradition was that wedding cake was sliced and sent to invited guests who could not attend the wedding. Indeed, when President John Tyler was married in the White House, one wedding cake was sliced and distributed to visitors there; another cake was given out to friends in New York.

It's an old tradition to celebrate special occasions at Capt. Nemo's.

Rawsonville students are hooked on books a class at Rawsonville Elementary is hooked on books — making them, not just reading them.

Students in Curt Spangler's fifth grade class have constructed their own alphabet (ABC), counting (1,2,3) and holiday books.

"First we made a rough draft, then we made our final copy," fifth grade student Ginger Hunt described the process. "We colored and drew pictures. Then we put poster board on top and used it as a cover."

Another student, Brian Koski, added: "We learned how to sew and put a book together. We even learned what a copyright is."

Some of the young bookmakers received ribbons for their books during the district's educational fair.

Marie Cox of Belleville has been named to the Marygrove College chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, a national scholastic honor society for college and university freshman who have obtained a B-plus average or better.

She was initiated into the chapter in special ceremonies April 24.

Kimberly Ann Laurain, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laurain of New Boston, recently was awarded a Regents Scholarship from Eastern Michigan University.

The scholarship is the most prestigious award offered by the University. Laurain, a senior at Huron High School, had to have a minimum 3.75 grade point average and test scores of at least 24 on the American College Test or 1050 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

She holds a 4.0 grade point average and is a member of the National Honor Society and president of the Huron High Student Council.

Laurain also is captain of the girls' varsity basketball team, and has lettered in basketball for the last three years, softball and volleyball.

She is ranked first in her graduating class of 163 students.

Several Belleville residents have received staff appointments and promotions, with the approval of the Board of Regents of Eastern Michigan University.

Staff appointments went to Michelle DeFrancesco of Belleville, who will serve as a secretary in the special education department, while promoted from account clerk to senior account clerk in the accounting department was Donna Lauth, also of Belleville.

Two Belleville High School students, Aml Raafat and Mary Anne Walters, will be welcomed as merit Scholarship winners at Wayne State University in Detroit.

The scholarships are awarded entirely on scholastic achievement, without regard to financial need. The students will have to maintain a B average and carry at least 12 credit hours a semester during their four years at the university to retain the scholarship.

The students, along with their parents, will attend a special program at the university on May 8, which will include a luncheon and tour of the campus.

LASER BEAM SURGERY

Laser beam surgery is a new and improved method for the treatment of conventional foot ailments. Laser beam surgery has proven to be safe and effective in the allied medical fields such as ophthalmology, gynecology and now, podiatry. We are one of few physicians to incorporate this new medical treatment which can help eliminate fear of conventional surgery.

WHAT IS LASER PODIATRY?

The major difference in laser podiatry and conventional surgery is that normal cutting is not done. A macroscopically controlled laser beam is focused on the infected skin and nail.

Foot Problems Solved by Laser Light

In Podiatry, a considerable variety of foot ailments can be treated with the laser

INGROWN NAILS

The corner of the nail and root are vaporized which is the cause of the problem.

FUNGUS NAILS

Normally a painful operation with cutting, the laser vaporizes the nail which is quicker and less painful. It also sterilizes and destroys the fungus.

PLANTERS CALLOUSES

With this process deep seated corns on the bottom of the foot are vaporized.

WARTS

Laser beam is used to evaporate instead of cutting the wart, thus eliminating growth and recurrence.

YWCA holds 125th birthday celebration

The YWCA is kicking up its heels with music, dance, pageantry and good food for a very special reason.

The YWCA of Western Wayne County is throwing a spectacular birthday party to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the YWCA of the U.S.A. on Friday, May 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Y.

Friends, members, former Girl Reserves and Y-Teens, leaders of the past and present from local communities or other states are urged to join in for an evening of reminiscing and looking to the future, according to co-chairpersons Clementine Payton and Violet Forbush.

Local YWCA programming began in 1924 in Dearborn.

The music of the Art Wyse orchestra will set the tone for the wine and hors d'oeuvres reception from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Board member Rev. Mary Willoughby's pageant, directed by Mary Ruth Ross and narrated by Wilma Manery, will involve a cast of dozens in a lighthearted walk through the life of the YWCA from the 1800s until today. The pageant will climax with the cutting of a four-tiered birthday cake, specially prepared in the old world fashion.

Dancing with Art Wyse from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. will round out an evening of partying at the YWCA.

Tickets for the evening cost $7 and are available at the YWCA, 26279 Michigan Avenue, and also through board and committee members.

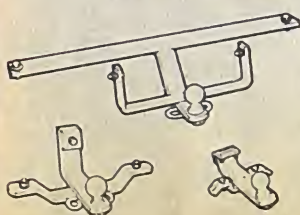

For information call 561-4110. The YWCA is a Torch Drive Agency.
